

CALL FOR PAPERS

Widening the Restorative Lens

An Initiative of the Research Committee of the European Forum for Restorative Justice

As Research Committee at the European Forum for Restorative Justice, we are launching a call for papers for a project called “Widening the restorative lens” with the aim of outlining an edited book and/or special journal issue that brings together studies related to Restorative Justice (RJ).

The aim of this call for papers is to help the RJ field to widen the spectrum of its academic and cultural references to works, authors and ideas that do not belong to the traditional background of literature that has become a common ground for restorative scholars. This could include works, paradigms, proposals that are lesser known in the international debate on RJ due, for instance, to the following reasons:

1. Their authors have not written and published in English, so their ideas are known mainly to those who speak their language
2. Their authors wrote before the “birth” of restorative justice
3. Their authors did not take part to the debate on restorative justice, but their ideas could positively contribute to it with an “external” perspective
4. Their authors have worked on restorative justice but have remained outside the “mainstream” set of publications

The proposed works should positively contribute to the current debate, offering ideas, interpretive schemes, proposals that result complementary or in any case able to support the restorative paradigm with interesting and possibly innovative argumentative paths.

Anyone who is interested in writing on some of the works and/or authors that fit any of the categories above is invited to send, in form of an abstract (250-400 words), a proposal of publication in which they can outline: a) the authors and/or works that are going to be analyzed and b) the reason why bringing to a wider audience such authors and/or works is deemed to positively contribute to the current debate.

The deadline is the 15th of December 2020. Please send your proposals to: brunilda.pali@kuleuven.be, federico.reggio@unipd.it

Within the end of this year, the Research Committee aims at outlining a possible list of contributions, with the purpose to direct the resulting publications towards:

1. An edited book (Editors: Federico Reggio & Brunilda Pali)
2. A journal special issue (ex. The International Journal of Restorative Justice)

Once the proposals/abstracts have been collected, the Research Committee will decide over the publication, its criteria and deadlines, as well as peer-review process, with the aim of having it out within the year 2021.
